Visit the Dublin Heritage Park and Museums!

The City of Dublin has created a dynamic new park that provides a picturesque environment to walk, relax, picnic, play and explore Dublin's heritage. Historical buildings from the Kolb Farm have been relocated and restored as the focal point of this park.

The main house, called the Kolb House, is a Craftsman Bungalow. The building has been outfitted with all original "Arts & Crafts" style furniture, fine china and household items that the family used between the years 1864-1957. Volunteer docents are available to guide visitors through the rooms of the Kolb House. Before exiting, visitors may stop by "The Back Porch," a gift shop featuring local Dublin history books, postcards and country gifts and antiques. Also on the park grounds is the 1856 Murray Schoolhouse which features a hands-on exhibit of Dublin's story from the early Pioneer days through Cityhood.

The park is also home to a number of other historic buildings renovated for recreational use. The Sunday School Barn, a Dublin landmark, offers a venue for theatrical presentations, concerts, barn dances, classes and events. The rustic Old Kolb House serves as a ceramics and art studio. The 1859 St. Raymond Church, one of California's oldest churches, also hosts concerts, teas and can be rented for weddings or other private events. Gardens, picnic tables and walking paths complete the park and provide areas for recreational use.

Volunteer

Experience the rewards of sharing history with visitors by volunteering at the Dublin Heritage Park and Museums. With the addition of the new historic buildings, more volunteers are needed in a variety of areas. Contact us to learn how you can lead site tours, assist with the park's numerous year-round events, work in the library or perhaps even help in the gardens. With so many different volunteer opportunities, there's sure to be something of interest for you. Volunteers meet monthly for "Tea and Training." Please call Edy Coleman at (925) 829-2435 for more information.
